Back-to-School Tips for Parents! By: PBS Parents, pbs.org/parents

Starting the new school year can be a time of great excitement... and anxiety. Help calm your child’s fears (and your own) with these teacher-approved tips.

• Meet the new teacher - For kids, one of the biggest back-to-school fears is “Will I like my new teacher?” Breaking the ice early on is one of the best ways to calm everyone’s fears. Take advantage of your school’s open house or back-to-school night.

• Tour the school - If your school hosts an open house, be sure to go. Familiarizing your child with his/her environment will help him/her avoid a nervous stomach on the first day. Together you can meet his/her teacher, find his/her desk, or explore the playground. With an older child, you might ask him/her to give you a tour of the school. This will help refresh his memory and yours.

• Connect with friends - A familiar friend can make all the difference when heading back to school. You might try calling parents from last year’s class and finding out which children are in your child’s class this year. Refresh these relationships before school starts by scheduling a play date or a school carpool.

• Tool up - Obtain the class supply list and take a special shopping trip with your child. Having the right tools will help him/her feel prepared. While keeping basic needs in mind, allow for a couple of splurges like a cool notebook or a favorite-colored pen. These simple pleasures make going back to school a lot more fun.

• Ease into the routine - Switching from a summer to a school schedule can be stressful to everyone in the household. Avoid first-day-of-school mayhem by practicing your routine a few days in advance. Set the alarm clock, go through your morning rituals, and get in the car or to the bus stop on time. Routines help children feel comfortable, and establishing a solid school routine will make the first day of school go much smoother.

YOUTH-LED CANDIDATE FORUM

On July 7, 2016, The Children’s Center hosted a youth-led candidate forum in partnership with Youth MOVE Detroit, 21st Century Community Learning Centers Program, and Michigan’s Children. The youth asked various questions to get to know candidates running for the Michigan House of Representative position. Candidates Joseph Tate, Carla Tinsley-Smith, Fred Durhal III, Dennis L. Black, Stephanie Chang, and David Sanchez, were all in attendance, representing Districts 2, 5, and 6. Charlie Langton from WJBK Fox 2 News was the moderator for this magnificent event and there was a voter’s registration table available for youth that met the age requirement and was interested in signing up.

Youth asked various questions with topics including education, race, discrimination, crimes, police brutality, and more. Youth also shared their personal stories giving the candidates a chance to relate and touch on those topics. In addition to those questions, “Why do you deserve the house of representative position?” was a powerful question that the youth asked, with great responses following. The candidate ended the forum by sharing with the youth, the person that inspired them to run for the position. They also shared that this was the best forum that they had attended and they really appreciated the opportunity to work with the youth.
I noticed something different about my son in Kindergarten. I would show up at his school and he would be standing up while the other children were sitting down doing school work. I asked his teacher why and she explained that he would not sit still and that he would rock in his chair. We would go to restaurants and he couldn’t sit still at the table. You would tell him to do something and he couldn’t remember it. If I changed the tone of my voice he would cry. If I talked to anyone else about his behavior they would say that he was just “being a boy”. Well by the 2nd grade I spoke with his pediatrician and she referred me to The Children Center. After he was evaluated and diagnosed with ADHD and Post Traumatic Syndrome I would never say that he had it. I thought that if I said it that it would make it true. I wasn’t ready to except it. After being educated by the staff and participating in classes I could then say that my son has ADHD and that it wasn’t as bad as I made it to be. My son is currently able to control himself better in public and his school is working with him as well. Not only does my son get the best care. I currently serve on the Consumer Council and volunteer in the Boutique and any place I am asked. This is the least that I can do in return for all that The Children Center has done for me.

The Vital Child-Parent Relationship

By: parentalrights.org

Parents play an irreplaceable role in the lives of their children. This vital relationship positively impacts a child’s physical, mental, and emotional well-being. The right of parents to maintain a strong involvement in their children's lives has been continually upheld by Supreme Court doctrine. It is deeply valued by millions of American families.

The role of parents in a child’s life is an irreplaceable one. "Even when young children spend most of their waking hours in child care, parents remain the most influential adults in their lives,” writes Dr. Jack Shonkoff, a board-certified pediatrician who sits on the faculty of the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

“The hallmark of [the parental] relationship is the readily observable fact that this special adult is not interchangeable with others,” he continues. “A child may not care who cuts his hair or takes his money at the toy store, but cares a great deal about who is holding her when she is unsure, comforts her when she is hurt, and shares special moments in her life.”

The relationship that parents share with their children is one that impacts a child throughout his or her lifetime. Studies show that the benefits of parental involvement are manifold, affecting numerous areas of a child’s life, including health and development, academic progress, and life choices.

QUICK FACTS ON PARENTAL INVOLVEMENT

- Children who have parental support are likely to have better health as adults.
- Students with involved parents tend to earn higher grades, have better social skills, and are more likely to graduate and go on to post-secondary education.
- Children are more likely to be socially competent and have better communication skills when they have parents who are sensitive to their needs and emotions.
- Teens who are monitored by their parents are one-quarter as likely as teens with "hands-off" parents to smoke, drink, and use drugs.
